Dr Wehan M. Coombs

Teacher, philosopher, writer and learning designer

Profile

Philosopher and English teacher with a PhD, fifteen years of university teaching and a year in the high-school classroom. I explain difficult ideas clearly, design courses and materials from the ground up, write and edit with care, and build simple digital tools for learning. In the age of AI I teach what cannot be automated: reading closely, arguing honestly, thinking in dialogue.

Skills

Teaching and facilitation
Lecturing to classes of 500; discussion seminars; Grade 10 to 12 English; online and hybrid teaching; one-to-one tutoring and TEFL.

Course design and tools
Four university modules built from scratch; five study guides and three readers; rubrics and assessments; ClickUP and Blackboard; live-streamed lectures; simple web apps.

Writing, editing and research
Two peer-reviewed articles and thirteen conference papers on Plato, Neoplatonism and esotericism; editing of theses, essays and course materials; digital PR copy.

Leading and organising
Tutor teams trained and managed; lecture schedules and assessment plans; student support systems; a colloquium co-organised.

Experience

University of Pretoria, Department of Philosophy — 2010 – 2026

Tutor (2010 – 2013), Assistant Lecturer (2014 – 2018), Head Lecturer (2016 – 2026)

- Head lecturer for first-year, second-year and honours modules, including first-year classes of more than 500 students
- Designed four modules from scratch and partly redesigned a fifth, writing their study guides and co-compiling a custom reader
- Trained and managed tutor teams, created assessments, marked thousands of essays and exams, and taught live online with my own streaming equipment

University of Johannesburg — Apr 2024 – Apr 2026

Postdoctoral Research Fellow: Platonic and African Esotericism

Abbotts College Pretoria East and Hoërskool Garsfontein — May – Sep 2026

PGCE teaching practicums, ten weeks in charge of classes

- Grade 10 and 11 English Home Language and First Additional Language (Macbeth, The Tempest, poetry, film and grammar); mentor assessment 95/100, and 98/100 for an observed lesson

Freelance — 2026 –

Tutoring, editing, learning design and digital PR writing for a marketing agency

Strengths
